Jackie Altman

Jackie Altman

Jackie comes from Swansea, South Wales, and moved to Cardiff after her marriage to David. Their children's interest in music led to her studying music with them and then to teaching piano and music theory.

Later, David's work took them to Westcliff-on-Sea, Essex, where she continued studying and teaching the piano. After about 3 years she decided to make a change and found a part-time job working for a Welsh MP.

Soon she became the 'Private Secretary to the Secretary of State for Wales'! She still continued to teach music after working hours and at weekends.

In 1987 they decided to make Aliya to Israel where they had a married daughter and grandchildren, a decision they never regretted. Jackie remarks "I have never taught music here in Israel - mainly because of the language problem. But perhaps now I should reconsider and get back to work again".

Jackie Altman: Netanya's Musical Secret

'Just off the Square' talented and outstanding musicians give weekly concerts, but too few people are familiar with them. Jackie will provide details and recordings and will delve into their history. She will also illustrate how they have benefitted not only a discerning audience but also the performers themselves.
